AY2027 Campus Academic Calender

【IMPORTANT】Regarding the organization of the academic calendar

Toyo University structures its academic calendar by incorporating the following elements (①–③):

①T-Weeks (periods for guidance sessions and special classes)、②A 14-week regular academic term, including periods for examinations and supplementary lectures、③Special intensive course periods during the summer and spring sessions

【IMPORTANT】Regarding the format of course delivery

For courses that grant credits based on in-person instruction, the format consists of 13 in-person class sessions held within the standard 13-week term, supplemented by two on-demand (or equivalent) class sessions. Please note that for some courses—such as those for which credits are granted without in-person attendance—the duration, number of sessions, and format of instruction may differ; therefore, be sure to check the syllabus or other relevant materials for specific details regarding each course. Regular classes for the Spring Semester/1st Quarter will begin on Monday, April 12, and those for the Fall Semester/3rd Quarter will begin on Friday, October 1.

◎All about T-Weeks

"T-Weeks" is a period dedicated to activities that enhance the value of your education at this university—such as carefully reviewing your study plan, participating in supplementary lessons, or attending various guidance sessions. During T-Weeks, a range of events, including the orientations listed below, will be held.

○Orientation ：Various orientation sessions for new students will be held. Please check for announcements from your respective faculty or department, and refer to the official app or other relevant resources.

○Guidance, etc.：Various guidance sessions and events—covering topics such as course registration, career planning, and study abroad—will be held. Please check for announcements from your respective faculty or department, and refer to the official app for further details.

○Lessons ：Classes may be delivered on-demand, and some subjects may be held in person (note that in-person classes will take place during the "special class period").

Please be sure to check the syllabus, ToyoNet-ACE, or similar sources for details regarding whether or not classes will be held.

〔SPECIAL NOTES〕
